

KNIFE, PISTOL: AND FIST FIGHT AT A FESTIVAL

One Man Dying in Hospital. Four Others Injured, in Lock-up.

The police of the Greenpoint avenue station are trying to get at the bottom of a vicious knife, fist and gun fight that occurred early today in a saloon on Box street, near Manhattan avenue, in Williamsburg. The visible fruits of the fight at this writing are one man in the hospital and four others in the lockup bearing a sore-to-the-touch memento of the occasion in the shape of a wound.

From the best information obtainable it appears that a party of Hungarians were holding some sort of a festival of their own which necessitated drinking a lot of pink wine and lager beer. The celebration had reached the stage where one is moved easily to tears, song or trouble, when in came a couple of Norwegian longshoremen.

For some reason the Hungarians took exception to the Norwegians and a row promptly started. In the next few seconds many things happened. It is alleged that John Rodensky and John Geige, both of No. 70 Box street and both Hungarians, pulled out knives and sailed into Gabe Ivars, a big Norwegian. They slashed him in the left breast and split his cheek open before he could get his gun out of his hip-pocket and begin shooting. In all four or five shots were fired. Geige was hit twice—in the shoulder and the left arm—but they were glancing wounds and not serious. Another bullet struck Rodensky in the head.

Sombody else used a knife with rather telling effect upon the features of Andre and John Gatsky, brothers, of No. 28 Box street. Policeman Gaffney found Rodensky lying senseless in the street. A passerby told him that there had just been a bad fight in the saloon, which was now closed and dark. Gaffney got the reserved from his station and began a search of the neighborhood. Ivars was traced by the red trail he left behind him to a sailor's boarding house around the corner in Clay street, where he had come to bed with his clothes on. A policeman found Geige hiding in a woodshed. The Gatsky brothers had hurried home. There were at least five or six others in the fight, the police men think, but they could not be found. Ambulance surgeons from the Williamsburg and the Eastern District Hospitals patched up the four who were not so badly hurt. Rodensky was taken to the Williamsburg Hospital where he may die. The four prisoners were locked up. None of them would talk.

LABOR MAN WINS HIS SUIT.

Important Point Made in Holding Employers Liable for Damages.

Alfred and Charles Stecker today won a significant victory for labor in a suit for damages brought by them in behalf of James Hayes, a bricklayer, under the Labor law, enacted for the purpose of holding employers responsible for any failure to safeguard their workmen in the matter of proper implements, scaffolding and the like.

Hayes was employed by Patrick J. Walsh, a mason and building contractor, who was constructing the new public school on First avenue, when, on Sept. 9, 1906, Hayes was tumbled off a faulty scaffolding and received injuries to his ankles which laid him up for months and still makes his activity doubtful.

The case was tried before Justice McColl on a jury in the Supreme Court. It was shown by the Messrs. Stecker that Hayes and others were working on a scaffolding nine feet above the ground. It was constructed of planks stretched across "horses." These planks were not nailed fast to the "horses." The planks extended beyond the "horses" at either end, and Hayes inadvertently stepped on the end of a plank. The plank tipped up and he fell to the ground.

The defendant contended that as the scaffolding was built in the customary way, he was not bound to nail the planks fast to the "horses."

The jury very promptly awarded $1,000 damages to Hayes, establishing an important point in favor of workmen.

MUTINY ON SHIP HEADED FOR ARCTIC

Sailing Master and Cook of Exploring Party Refuse Duty in North Lands.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 25.—Letters have been received from the Anglo-American Arctic expedition which left Victoria on May 20 on the schooner Duchess of Bedford, dated from Port Hope on July 25. It had not been expected that the schooner would reach this port before Aug. 15.

From there the vessel was to proceed at once to Minto Inlet, Prince Albert Land, where winter quarters would be established. The letters say that on July 8 the schooner had a narrow escape from going ashore in Behring Straits during a heavy fog.

While at Teller City the sailing-master, Barker, and the cook refused duty and only, it is stated, when threatened with flogging, did they return to the ship. They return on board, and then only on condition that they be replaced at Point Barrow.

A good supply of dogs was secured for the ice trips at St. Lawrence Island. Ice is reported heavy this year, but the explorers were hopeful that they could round the fringe and reach winter headquarters at Prince Albert Land, where the schooner will be anchored as a depot and a camp will be made ashore.

SATURDAYS IN BED FOR POOR JOHNNY

Not for Him the Pirates' Lair—He Took Another Boy's Bicycle.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—If you know of a tree so full of chestnuts that it was fairly groaning, just waiting for somebody to come along and knock 'em down, or—

If you had intended to go down Cape Cod Bay on a sailing trip with a can of sardines and two bottles of sassafras soda pop and an air-gun, and other supplies common among pirate bands, or—

If you had made all arrangements to go out in the woods with a lot of other kids and dig a robber's cave in a mudbank, or—

If you had every expectation of earning at least a cent collecting old rags and bits of scrap-iron and selling them to the junkman.

Wouldn't it make you feel gloomy if you had to spend every Saturday in bed from now until further notice? Therefore pity the sad fate of Johnny Walters, who carefully walked off with another boy's bicycle. A cop caught him red-handed—it was a red bicycle—and took him before Judge H. H. Baker in the new Juvenile Court, and Judge Baker sentenced Johnny to confinement in bed on Saturdays for an indeterminate term.

Every Friday night after supper Johnny Walters has got to undress and go to bed and stay there right straight until Monday morning, and he has to go to school. Horrible!

Where's poor Johnny's mother, concurring in the findings of the Court and intending to see that the punishment is carried out to the letter of the law. Pity poor Johnny Walters.
